Globe Flyers Land Today At Amoy, China; Get A Tremendous Reception

Amoy, China, June 7. (INS.)—All three of the United States army round the world airplanes arrived here safely this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and were given a tremendous ovation. Following the ragged Chinese coastline the fliers negotiated the 525 miles in approximately 7 hours and 40 minutes. All three pilots and their machines were in fine shape. Weather conditions were favorable.

The United States destroyer Tracey was anchored off the port to direct the armen to their landing place.

Lieut. Smith and his colleagues will overhaul their machines and spend the night resting in preparation for the hop off for Hong Kong tomorrow. The next leg is 200 miles long.

CONGRESS TO QUIT TODAY, LAYING ITS DEEDS AND MISDEEDS BEFORE CONVENTION

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON
N. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 7.—Thrown out of the beaten pathway by a Democratic Congress for adjournment of a session tonight with a record of deeds and misdeeds, the legislative body of the nation is to lay its record before the convention of the Republican party.

With President Coolidge, congressional disclosures of alleged corruption in public office and repeated defeat of the administration on fiscal policy featured a session replete with turbulent debate, factional strife and scandal.

In less than six months, the Congress forced two cabinet officers to resign, administered extraordinary attacks to the pet policies of two cabinet members, and utterly ignored the legislative recommendations of the President.

Although the Republican party holds a power majority, the Congress was dominated by the Independent Progressive bloc, which paid allegiance to Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin. The La Follette group held a balance of power and their usual course was to oppose the Democrats in opposing the Coolidge administration.

The outstanding legislative achievements were the new revenue bill, which added compensation to the new immigration act, and the Japanese exclusion clause. All these measures, passed by one vote, were written into law by the vigorous protest of the leaders.

14 MINERS LOSE LIVES IN HARD COAL GAS BLAST

Wilkes-Barre, June 6.—At least 14 men are known to be dead and one injured seriously as a result of a gas explosion in the Loomis colliery of the Glen Allen Coal Company, near here today.

Dead and injured have been removed from the mine but rescue parties are still searching the workings. Among the dead are Thomas Phillips and Richard Wall of Nanticoke and John Heitrick of Hanover Green, all miners. Two Wilkes-Barre Negroes are also among the dead.

The chief officials of the Glen Allen company are on the scene. Joseph J. Walsh, chief of the Pennsylvania bureau of mines, is expected to take charge of the investigation. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

The 14 bodies are believed to have been the total casualties of the explosion which occurred when 400 men were working in various levels. The bodies were found in the lowest level, 750 feet below the surface.

Officials of the mine said they were prepared to resume operations today if the men reported for work. They were certain that no other miners had lost their lives in the blast.

Although there were reports that 15 men had lost their lives, it was stated at the mine offices that only 14 bodies had been recovered although another miner who was found with serious burns and a broken leg was expected to die.

ANOTHER CRACK WABASH FLYER DERAILED

Granite City, Ill. June 7 (INS.)—A Chicago-San Francisco train was wrecked near here today after 9:30 a. m. today when the train struck an automobile on a crossing.

The engine and four coaches turned over.

Early reports did not state the number of casualties.

Physicians have been rushed to the scene.

Clinton Glid of the United States army met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Soderlund on Dorsey street. There was a good attendance and at the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served. The meeting adjourned, all reporting a very nice time.

TRY A CHANGE

How about going to church service tomorrow "for a change"? Yes, the roads are fine, so is the easy chair in the home but you can go to church and still have plenty of time for that ride and for a nap or two siesta in the easy chair. You will enjoy the change. Every minister in the city will have an interesting sermon for you. The deep-throated, mellow tones of the pipe organ will entrance you, the singing will raise your spirits. You will "rest better, sleep better, feel better."

TRIAL OF THE LILLY RIOTERS TO BEGIN MONDAY MORNING

Ebensburg, Pa., June 7. (INS.)—When the June term of criminal court opens here Monday morning, 27 alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan and 17 citizens of Lilly borough, Pa., will be arraigned on charges of murder, riot, unlawful assembly and affray before Judge Thomas D. Finletter, of Philadelphia common pleas court No. 1, specially presiding. Additional charges of carrying concealed weapons are lodged against a number of the alleged klansmen.

The charges grew out of the Lilly, Pa., riot on the night of April 5, this year when two Lilly young men, Philip Conrad, 24, and Clord Paul, 22, were shot to death, and Frank Mascoe, 22, received wounds from which he died later.

The trouble occurred following a demonstration at Lilly by the Ku Klux Klan whose members went there on a special Pennsylvania railroad train from Johnstown, picking up other delegations at various way stations.

Both factions have been reticent concerning all details of the rioting since their members were incarcerated in jail here, but despite this lack of a play, there are indication of a powerful legal battle to be waged here.

Percy Allen Rose, one of the most noted criminal lawyers in this district, will head the klansmen's legal forces, aided by Ray Patton Smith, Alvin Shebume, J. J. Kintner and Frank P. Reinhart, all of Johnstown.

Counsel for the Lilly men includes Thomas W. Bender of Lilly, Philip N. Shettig, Arthur Nelson, F. J. Hartman Harry Englehart, Charles Evans the law firm of Jones and Griffith, Leech and Leech, all of Ebensburg, and Charles C. Greer, of Johnstown.

Confesses To Being The Driver Of Death Car In March Philadelphia Job

Philadelphia, June 7. (INS.)—After two days and nights of grilling by detectives, John Bowers, alias Brickley, of 508 West 50th street, New York, confessed early today that he was the driver of the death car in the payroll holdup here in March in which J. Harold Wiley was killed.

He admitted that James Connors, held in New York, was also a participant in the holdup and named the third member of the gang, known as the "Hudson dusters."

"My God, my God, you've got me," police quoted him as saying. "But this will mean that my wife and child will be bumped off in New York."

He said he fears that the third member of the outfit will get revenge on him for his confession by killing his family.

NEAR CYCLONE DOES $75,000 DAMAGE IN RURAL YORK COUNTY

York, Pa., June 7. (INS.)—With buildings blown down, trees uprooted, orchards destroyed and telephone service impaired, York county was today recovering from the worst storm that has visited this section in years. It is estimated that the damage will reach $75,000.

Accompanied by hail and rain, the storm, approaching the magnitude of a cyclone, swept over sections of the county last night, leaving in its wake a path of destruction.

At Red Lion, a roof of a cigar factory was carried off by the wind and blown 200 feet over two houses, damaging a third. Damage here alone is estimated at $10,000.

Barns and other farm buildings were reported blown down from many sections. Orchards were destroyed by hail and fields washed out by rain. Because of the interrupted transportation service a complete check up was impossible.

Because of the storm, according to A. L. Bierbower, president of the County Agricultural Association, there will be a serious delay in the planting. He added that in his 35 years' experience he has never known corn planting to be so late.

Philadelphians, June 7.—(INS.)—Nathan Cohen, a "student" bootlegger, was dead today; a $2,500 payroll was burned up and part of an office building was wrecked following the explosion of a 200-lb. still here.

Cohen told police that he had agreed to run the still for a "man in a limousine" who gave him some lessons in operating it. A number of girl employees of a paper box company were driven to the street by the explosion and fire which followed.

Betty Bloom gave a birthday party to about two dozen of her little girl friends at her home on North Second street yesterday afternoon. It was an enjoyable affair and Betty proved herself a delightful hostess.

ON THE DOWN HILL

The activity of the "Y" campaign workers is a challenge to every citizen of Clearfield. Here are men who have given heavily themselves and in addition are giving practically all of their time for a week to solicitation. Over half of the sum has been raised and in half of the allotted time. They have done excellently. Now the drive is "up the hill." The "down hill" end of it is full of the pitfalls of procrastination and other evils. If you have not filled out your card yet, be prepared to do so early Monday morning.

POSTAL BILL IS VETOED

Washington, June 7. (INS.)—President Coolidge today vetoed the postal bill providing increases in the salaries of all postal employees.

The President has written a lengthy message to Congress explaining the veto. This will be sent to Congress during the afternoon.

The fact that the bill would have added $277,600,000 a year expense to the Post Office Department caused Mr. Coolidge to refuse to approve it.

FIRST THREE DAYS OF 'Y' CAMPAIGN NETS HALF AMOUNT THAT IS REQUIRED

With one-half of the time allotted to the local Y. M. C. A. Community Service campaign passed, the workers have secured a little more than half of the amount they aim to reach next Tuesday evening, the closing night of the campaign.

There was great rejoicing in the "camp" when the reports were read last evening, and every captain and his workers were given a "glad hand" when their reports were called and recorded on the scoreboard. The workers reported their largest day—over $3,900 and the executive committee $5,600.

Division A under the leadership of Dr. Frantz still have their "goat"—it seems impossible for either of the other divisions to get it. Spark Plug was not content to dwell long with Capt. Flaherty, so last night was moved over to team No. 5 under the leadership of Captain McMurray, who is responsible for him and his actions until Monday evening. Capt. McMurray's team also have the privilege of riding in the campaign auto, having secured the largest number of subscriptions for the day, 23. Capt. Wallace Smith's team gave him a pretty race and were only one subscription behind.

The workers did not lose any time around the tables last evening but immediately after reports and instructions went out determined more than ever that success will be theirs on Tuesday next.

Yesterday's report follows:

BEAM—LANSBERRY

At the M. E. parsonage Woodland on Wednesday of this week John Beam of Bishtown and Nana Lansberry, daughter of C. E. Lansberry also of Bishtown, were united in marriage by the Rev. G. B. M. Reidel, pastor of the M. E. Church. Both of the contracting parties are well known and a host of friends wish them abundant happiness. They will reside at Bishtown.

FRIENDS OF MR. AND MRS. A. W. ROWE gathered at their home on Cemetery road last evening where a birthday party was held. The guests enjoyed the evening immensely. Refreshments were served at twelve o'clock.

Local friends were advised of serious injuries suffered by Jay Snook, a former resident, when a scaffold, on which he was working as a slater, gave way and precipitated Jay and another workman, to the ground.

COULDN'T MISS THAT PARTY

Little Mary Jane Orentt, who was hit by a car in front of her home on North Second street Thursday and suffered a sprained ankle in the mix-up, is recovering nicely and though not able to walk managed to attend Betty Bloom's birthday party because Daddy Orentt carried her to and from the party to ensure her participation in the wonderful time had.

IS NOW RECOVERING

Mrs. John H. Appgar, who has been having a very serious time the past week from an attack of blood poisoning, is now recovering satisfactorily.

Mrs. Appgar ran a splinter into one of the fingers on her right hand recently while washing some carpet. Blood poisoning ensued and it was found necessary to remove the infected finger in order to stop the progress of the disease.

FIGHT BREWING IN G. O. P. CONVENTION ON TWO BIG ISSUES

Cleveland, Ohio, June 7. (INS.)—Two sharp fights over the Republican platform to be adopted in the convention here next week developed today as the committee on platform and policies, composed of one member from each state, began wading through the hundreds of suggestions gathered by six months work.

One will be over prohibition and the other the Ku Klux Klan.

With the backing of the avowedly "wet" element of the party, Ralph Beaver Strassburger, of Pennsylvania, who defeated Governor Gifford Pinchot as a delegate recently, will endeavor to have the convention go on record in favor of modifying the Volstead act.

His effort is foredoomed to failure, according to party leaders. But just to make certain of the opposition's strength, the dyes will be represented before the platform committee by Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon League, who will insist with equal force on the adoption of a bone dry plank.

The plan fight will be conducted by R. B. Creeger, member of the national committee from Texas, who will endeavor to have the convention endorse a plank specifically condemning the hooded order.

It was predicted today by the leaders that both Klan and div issues will be taken care of in a general plank pleading law enforcement without regard to race, creed or color, and without specific mention of either issue.

PROGRESS READERS TO GET "HOT" NEWS FROM CLEVELAND

Cleveland, June 7. (INS.)—The largest and most complete news gathering and transmitting staff that ever attended an event of great national importance assembled in Cleveland today to furnish readers of The Progress with the moves on the great political chess board that constitutes the Republican national convention.

Notable staffs have been present at other national conventions and events of epochal importance, but the modern newspaper world has never before witnessed such a perfection of detail and arrangement as was presented in Cleveland today by the organization of the service to be rendered The Progress through the International News Service.

Sixty thousand miles of telegraph wire, linked up into one gigantic circuit, and extending from Maine to California, and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, will carry the news of President Coolidge's nomination and kindred events to the waiting public that is served by The Progress and other newspapers affiliated with the International News Service. Stretched out in a single line these thousands of miles of telegraph wire would extend nearly two and a half times around the world.

The human mechanism through which the moves, inside and outside the convention hall, the hotels and the conference rooms, will be reported with almost instantaneous speed, is composed of men long skilled in the recording and interpreting of great national and international events, and an expert corps of the fastest telegraph operators in this country, which means the world, as well. There will be men sending their dots and dashes from convention hall next Tuesday who are capable of transmitting 3,000 words an hour.

The staff has been assembled and arrangements completed under the direction of M. Koengsberg, president of the International News Service, and George G. Shor, its editor and manager, and they will personally supervise the operations during convention week.

It is not only a book of names, addresses and occupations, it is an encyclopedia of accurate data concerning the people of a community and their various activities. It is the only accurate history of what the community was yesterday; it presents it in the concrete today and is a reliable index of what it may be tomorrow. Its pages point unerringly to the progress and development of the industrial life of the community. Every item in the directory is of interest to some individual and to the city, as a whole. Nine pages include data concerning county and city officials, public and private institutions; banks, cemeteries, churches, hospitals and homes, libraries, schools, societies and newspapers, parks, public buildings, halls, postoffices, railroads and secret societies, also information covering every phase of industry and activity in the territory covered by the Directory.

Fifty-three of the pages cover a history of householders. In this section streets and avenues arranged alphabetically, the beginning and ending of each are shown, as well as the line of general direction; intersecting streets are also shown at point of intersection. The names of residents and business concerns are shown opposite each number.

Thirty-five pages include a Buyers' Guide. This section, printed on tinted paper, includes numerous advertisements of the leading manufacturing, business and professional interests of Clearfield. They have been carefully grouped by departments and indexed under classified headings and otherwise in various parts of the directory. A casual perusal of these advertisements will picture many interesting features of the city.

ALL WAS STILL AT STILL SO'S STILLER STILL MAY STILL AT ANOTHER STILL

Sheriff Tom Lowell, Deputy Harrisburgh and State Game Protector W. J. Davis, accompanied by the "chemical expert" of the Progress, drifted down into Goshen township yesterday afternoon and the officers put the cleaner upon about the nearest moonshiners' outfit to be found out of doors in this section.

The plant was said to have been operated by L. L. Johnson, a Meeker county man, who came into this section last winter as a deer hunter, and one or more local men.

The shiners are said to have had a falling out and the local end of it tipped off the officers, but although they laid for the alleged "chief producer" for several days, Johnson failed to show up and their two stills, two barrels of rye mash that would have been ripe for the Fourth of July market, and a lot of other paraphernalia was destroyed.

The outfit was located, well concealed, in a ravine back of Shawville about two miles from Crooked Run hunting camp.

Washington, June 7. (INS.)—President Coolidge today vetoed the postal bill providing increases in the salaries of all postal employees.

The President has written a lengthy message to Congress explaining the veto. This will be sent to Congress during the afternoon.

The fact that the bill would have added $277,600,000 a year expense to the Post Office Department caused Mr. Coolidge to refuse to approve it.

Sixty thousand miles of telegraph wire, linked up into one gigantic circuit, and extending from Maine to California, and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, will carry the news of President Coolidge's nomination and kindred events to the waiting public that is served by The Progress and other newspapers affiliated with the International News Service. Stretched out in a single line these thousands of miles of telegraph wire would extend nearly two and a half times around the world.

The human mechanism through which the moves, inside and outside the convention hall, the hotels and the conference rooms, will be reported with almost instantaneous speed, is composed of men long skilled in the recording and interpreting of great national and international events, and an expert corps of the fastest telegraph operators in this country, which means the world, as well. There will be men sending their dots and dashes from convention hall next Tuesday who are capable of transmitting 3,000 words an hour.

The staff has been assembled and arrangements completed under the direction of M. Koengsberg, president of the International News Service, and George G. Shor, its editor and manager, and they will personally supervise the operations during convention week.

Clearfield's New City Directory Fills A Need Of All Up-to-Date Cities

R. L. Polk & Co., publishers of the Clearfield City Directory are distributing their 1924 edition just off the press. It is a volume of 372 pages and as usual is replete with all available and vital data concerning Clearfield. The publishers in their line, and due to their organization being solely devoted to directory publication, their products fully meet all requirements of patrons and the public. The present volume is well bound and has a good typographical appearance.

The directory is recognized as a social and business necessity and a valuable asset to a community. It is not only a book of names, addresses and occupations, it is an encyclopedia of accurate data concerning the people of a community and their various activities. It is the only accurate history of what the community was yesterday; it presents it in the concrete today and is a reliable index of what it may be tomorrow. Its pages point unerringly to the progress and development of the industrial life of the community. Every item in the directory is of interest to some individual and to the city, as a whole. Nine pages include

Obituary

MRS. D. W. ANDERSON

In the death of Mrs. D. W. Anderson, which occurred at the Clearfield hospital at midnight on Thursday, May 29, 1924, this community suffered a great loss. Trinity Methodist Episcopal church lost a devout member, while her family was deprived of the care and counsel of a loving, unselfish and devoted wife and mother.

Nevayah Diana Heck was born at Three Springs, Huntingdon county, on August 21st, 1866 and on July 8, 1891, was united in marriage with David W. Anderson. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Tyrone and then to Hughesville, Pa., later taking up their residence at Madera, which was their home for five years, or until they came to Clearfield in 1900. Since that time they have resided at the corner of West Third avenue and West Locust street. Mrs. Anderson affiliated with Trinity Methodist church upon her arrival here and has since remained an earnest and devout member, entering into all the activities of her church with that energy and zeal which marked all her activities. She was deeply interested in the welfare of the community and gave much time and attention to every activity which was designed for the betterment and uplifting of the town and its people, being for some time of her death Vice President of the Senior Woman's Club and an active member of other civic organizations.

Her health began to fail two years ago, and despite all that loving care and skilled medical attention could accomplish continued to decline until her death ensued as the result of a complication of ills and following an operation to relieve her sufferings. Mrs. Anderson was a good woman in the fullest and broadest sense of the term and her death was a great loss to her household, which she had so long and so happily been throughout the life of the community, where her sterling worth and kindness was so greatly appreciated.

She is survived by her husband, three daughters and one son as follows: Mrs. James McMurray Gallaher, Clearfield; Mrs. Maxwell Wensel, State of Huntingdon; Miss Berenice, Clearfield; and H. Anderson, both at home, and Mrs. Della M. Kirk, also at home.

The funeral occurred from her late home on Monday afternoon last at 2 o'clock. The services were in charge of Dr. E. C. Reeve, of the Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. P. McCurdy. Interment was made in Hillcrest.

FUNERAL OF KERRMOOR CITIZEN

Mrs. Allen R. Haney of Clearfield attended the funeral of her uncle, E. Shaffer on Monday, June 2nd. The service was preached in the home by Rev. Lewis and services further conducted in Fruit Hill Church. Beautiful and impressive music was furnished at the home by the Lumber City and Kerrmoor choirs, using the splendid home choir and pipe organ in Fruit Hill church. Interment in church cemetery by undertaker Wm. Thompson of Clearfield.

Among those in attendance were E. Percy Shaffer and William Michael of Curwensville, together with friends and relatives from all the surrounding towns.

His daughters from Altoona, Toledo Ohio, and Cuba, New York, were at his bedside when he passed away. His birthday has become a great day in the world's history, as he was born November 11, 1846, and passed to rest on Memorial Day, May 30, 1924.

ELIZA MALINDA RUSSELL

Eliza Malinda Russell, wife of William C. Russell, died at her home at Gramplan on May 26. Mrs. Russell was in her 73d year, having been born August 23, 1851. She was the youngest daughter of the late William and Sarah Wall and the granddaughter of David Wall who was one of the pioneer settlers of the Gramplan Hills, he going to that section when it was a primitive forest in 1812.

Mrs. Russell was noted among her acquaintances for her unusually kind disposition and happy, hopeful temperament. This together with her strong mother love made her the idol of her husband and three sons who have been left to mourn her loss.

Eliza Malinda Wall was united in marriage to William C. Russell on Oct. 29, 1874. They have lived in that section of the country ever since that time, and in the same farm home in which she died for 41 years. The three sons, Thomas, Charles and Harry are married and live nearby, who with their children and children's children attended the funeral.

The funeral was held at the Russell home on Thursday, May 29, to which, in spite of a downpour of rain, a large number of neighbors and friends attended out of respect for the wife, mother and friend they had loved so well. Reuben P. Kester, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Emma R. Abbott, of Brady Lake, Ohio, spoke words of comfort and the Bensall quartett rendered beautiful music.

MRS. ANNA PATTERSON

Mrs. Anna Patterson, of Glen Richey, Pa., died at her home Monday Morning, June 2, 1924, after an illness of over two months. She was laid to rest in the Bloomington cemetery, Wednesday afternoon, June 4. Rev. C. W. Peters officiating. The funeral was in charge of the Pythian Sisters of which she was a member.

Mrs. Anna Patterson was the oldest daughter of David and Jeanie Prentice of Alloa, Scotland and was born July 17, 1851. In 1874 she was married to James Patterson, in Shettleston Parish, Lanarkshire, Scotland. They came to America in 1881 and settled in Snow Shoe, Centre county, Pa., About 30 years ago they came to Glen Richey, where she has made her residence until her death. Her husband died about 25 years ago. After a few years she was again married to Geo. S. Patterson, whom she married nine years ago. She is survived by five daughters and one son Mrs. Jean McClure and Mrs. Kate Woodfolk of Pittsburgh; Mrs. James Dene and James Patterson, of Glen Richey; Mrs. Anna Uhlman, of Charleroi, Pa.; and Mrs. Edward Zeigler, of Rochester, N. Y., and a host of friends who will mourn her passing away.

WILLIAM H. WELKER

William H. Welker, son of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Welker, passed to his reward on May 29, 1924. Death was due to heart trouble. He was a good Christian man, belonging to the Shiloh U. B. Church for over 20 years. He was loved by all who knew him and had a kind word for everybody. He was a man who was always doing a kind deed for someone.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida Welker, and five children: Blain, Geraldine, Catharine, Blair, and Rebecca. Also his aged father, David B. Welker, and six brothers and sisters: Mrs. Robert Harrier, Ernest Welker, Mrs. Harry Lumague, Mrs. Walter Krebs, Mrs. Floyd Green and Loren Welker. Funeral services were held in the Shiloh Church. Rev. Moses officiated. Interment in Shiloh cemetery.

Longevity Recipe

The Cardinal de Solis, archbishop of Seville, in Spain, was one hundred years old when he died. He used to tell his friends, when asked why he lived to such a great age, "By being when I was young, I am able to young when I am old. I led a studious, contemplative, but not too sedentary life."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS STARTS SUMMER PROGRAM WITH ROUSING MEETING

The Class in the Corner of the West Side M. E. Sunday school held their monthly meeting at the Leonard house Thursday evening, which was attended by 48 members and guests.

The entertainment of the evening was opened by the class quartet rendering two snappy numbers during the fine meal served by Proprietor Passmore. Mrs. C. D. Lansberry sang two very fine solos at the conclusion of the class. Following a number of reports, a ladies' trio, consisting of Mrs. Lansberry, Mrs. Clifford A. Shaw, and Miss Dorothy Armstrong, accompanied by Mrs. Neal MacBlain, entertained the class. This was the trio's first appearance and their repertoire was far too short to satisfy their listeners.

The business meeting of the class was getting under way when Fred Robinson, of Curwensville, came rushing in to give a 15-minute stunt that made a decided hit. Upon Fred's departure the class again got down to business and outlined a summer program that promises to keep this bunch of young men busy for the coming four or five months.

Sweet-Tooth Squirrel

At Epping, N. H., Mrs. Blair and her pupils noted an interesting bit of natural history. A squirrel was seen playing in a sugar maple near the schoolhouse, and a closer inspection revealed the fact that he had gnawed the under side of a limb and, hanging on by his four feet, was eating the sap that oozed out. He repeated this performance several times.

If You Can't Sleep At Night Try Some Milk Before Retiring

Many people find that if they cannot sleep, they try a bottle of milk before going to bed and this brings refreshing sleep in a very short time. The reason therefor is very simple. Your stomach is empty and craves something to fill it but you don't realize it.

Drinking a small bottle of milk or even a glass of milk will satisfy that craving for something to eat and you've given your stomach the most easily digested food known to man. The craving for food is satisfied but in such a form that the digestive juices will work without keeping you awake as they might in the case you ate something of a less digestive nature.

EZEKIEL ENCOURAGES THE EXILES

SCRIPTURE TEXT—Ezek. 34:1-26.
DEVOTIONAL TEXT—"I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away."—Ezek. 34:16
ANALYTICAL TOPIC—Ezekiel Preaching
to the Exiles.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Lord Seeking His Scattered
People.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Ezekiel's Mission to the Exiles.

Ezekiel prophesied in the land of captivity. The latter part of Jerem-iah's ministry was contemporaneous with that of Ezekiel. The purpose of his ministry was:

1. To Keep Before the Minds of the
Captives That They Were in Captivity
Because of the Sins of the Nation
(Ezek. 14:23).

2. To Show That God Was Righteous
in His Visitation of Judgment Upon
Them. (Ezek. 7:8, 9).

3. To Sustain Their Faith by Assuring Them of Their National Restoration, the Punishment of Their Enemies and the Final Exalted Place of Israel Among the Nations When Messiah Should Reign. (Ezek. 34:20-31).

4. Indictment of the False Shepherds. (vs. 1-19).

Israel's ruined condition resulted from the failure of the rulers to properly care for the people of Israel, God's sheep. Their sin was that:

1. They Exploited the People Instead of Shepherding Them (vs. 1-3).
The shepherds were appointed to feed
the flock but instead of that they fed themselves even devouring the sheep
and clothing themselves with the wool thereof.

2. They Failed to Minister to the Sick, the Diseased and Wounded (v. 4).
It is not enough that the shepherds refrain from doing evil to the sheep. They are expected to strengthen the weak and bind up the wounds of those that have been injured.

3. They Did Not Search Out the Lost Sheep (vs. 5-6). Sheep left to wander away. The sheep
were not expected to look after themselves but to be cared for by the shepherd. In their scattered condition they became the prey of wild beasts. None searched after them though they had wandered through the mountains and over the hills.

4. The Lord Held the Priests and Rulers of Israel Responsible for This Condition (v. 10). The Lord always holds those responsible who have been in power over His children.

5. Israel to Be Restored (vs. 11-22).
Though the rulers have so wretchedly ruined the almighty God will come to the rescue of His people.

6. He Will Search and Seek Them
Out (vs. 11-12). Though Israel be scattered throughout the nations, the divine shepherd will deliver them from every place where they have been scattered.

7. Will Bring Them Into Their Own
Land (v. 13). This was partly fulfilled in the return of the remnant under Ezra and Nehemiah, but the real fulfillment awaits the future.

8. Will Feed Them (vs. 13, 14). He will not only satisfy them with food
He will cause them to lie down in perfect contentment and security (vs.
14-15).

9. Shall No More Be a Prey (v. 22).
Though God's chosen people have been scattered through the mountains and over the hills of the nations and have become a prey to the rapacious greed of other nations, God will one day deliver His sheep and will judge the false shepherds.

10. The Coming Good Shepherd
(vs. 23-24).
The restoration through which this great deliverance is to be wrought is
the Messiah Himself.

11. He Will Make a Covenant of Peace (v. 25). This condition of peace will be brought about by the presence of the Lord among them. The world and Israel will only know actual peace
when the Prince of Peace shall come and rule over the whole earth.

12. The Beasts Removed (v. 25). The restoration in which awaits Israel and the world will not only affect God's chosen and their rulers but will bring peace to all living among the animals.
His children can sleep in peace
and quiet even in the woods.

13. Flowing of Living Water (vs. 25-26).

14. The chosen people shall be a blessing to the world, according to His purpose for them. When these blessings are poured out, it shall be known that they flow from Jesus Christ, the good Shepherd. The purpose of Israel's choice was that the world might be blessed through them
(Gen. 12:1-3).

THE PROGRESS OF FREEDOM

The approval of the child labor amendment by the United States Senate, following similar action by the House, is another triumph in the cause of American freedom. Ratification by the necessary number of states may be safely assumed.

There is a tendency among some Americans to talk as if all additions to the basic law of the nation were necessarily dangerous, and in defiance of the original purpose of the founders. A calm study of the Constitution surely does not uphold that view. It suggests rather, to an open mind, that these amendments are only fulfilling its spirit.

What is the essential spirit underlying the Constitution? Freedom, unquestionably. The very first Congress that assembled under the Constitution proposed 10 amendments more specifically guaranteeing freedom. The whole train of amendments following the Civil War have been devised, broadly speaking, for the same purpose.

The Thirteenth Amendment abolished human slavery in this country.

The Fourteenth Amendment forbade the abridgement of citizenship rights.

The Fifteenth Amendment expressly gave every male citizen the right to vote.

The Sixteenth Amendment gave the people the right to tax wealth directly for national purposes.

The Seventeenth Amendment enabled the people to elect their Senators directly, and thus free the United States Senate from political bossism.

The Eighteenth Amendment aimed to free the nation from the domination of the liquor traffic and its people individually from the slavery of alcohol.

The Nineteenth Amendment enfranchised women.

The Twentieth Amendment will free millions of children under 18 from stunting toil, by empowering the federal government to limit, regulate or prohibit the labor of boys and girls under 18 years of age.

Here is progress in human freedom which, instead of "destroying respect for the Constitution", justifies it as a vital, progressive body of organic law, adaptable to the needs of a liberty loving people generation after generation.

EDUCATED MORONS

Bright and clever those student-murderers in Chicago certainly are—within limits. They must be so to have accomplished their college work with such rapidity and ease. But Chicago newspaper writers have surely overdone the matter in tributes to their mentality. Their exploits, when carefully analyzed, leave much to be desired as far as real intelligence is concerned.

The kidnaping and murder seem to have been planned with considerable ingenuity. Yet the murderers were not so clever when it came to practice. It was luck, more than anything else, that kept them from quicker discovery. They were careless about many things—about picking up their victim near his home, where the kidnaping might easily have been seen; about the car they hired and the bloodstains they left in it; about their false alibi and the Leopold car that was standing in its garage the day of the crime, instead of being driven by Leopold; about showing abnormal interest and skirting the edge of discovery over and over, after the murder; about confessing the crime when the police were about to let them go.

They were especially stupid in their torrent of admissions and boasts when their mouths were once opened. Revelling in their crime, for some strange reason or other, they poured out all kinds of incriminating statements, regardless of the fact that the police would certainly use those statements against them.

All that was helpful to the cause of justice. But surely it failed to show much practical intelligence on the part of prisoners who admittedly want to escape paying the penalty for their crime. Morons could hardly have done worse.

Book learning the boys undoubtedly have. But that takes only a receptive mind. One of them, at least, is glib-tongued; but so is many a shallow-pate. Their career and their words suggest knowledge without understanding. It was, perhaps, the lack of real understanding—true intelligence—that made it possible for them to do what they did, besides inviting discovery when they had done it.

Mollusk Does Harm

A small mollusk known as a pholad, has been reported to have caused extensive injury to the brickwork at the entrance to one of the dry docks at Calcutta. The creature cuts its way into the bricks where the surface glaze has been destroyed. In this particular case they were destroyed after having penetrated to about half an inch, but scientists believe that except for that they would have destroyed all the brickwork.

THE GENIUS OF YOUTH

By FLORENCE DAVIES

A group of art teachers were discussing school art the other day.

"It's a strange thing," said a visiting supervisor, "but it's true, that often the work that shows the most freshness and originality, the most real promise, is found in the lower grades."

"It's the young ones, the primary children, who show the most real genius. Later their work becomes stilted and conventional. They copy more and follow along the lines laid down by others."

Crude as the work of a child almost always is, it often has a kind of spontaneous freshness about it.

"You see," said the teacher, "a child draws a thing as he thinks it is. When it's finished, it suits him perfectly. The horse may be a little wobbly as to legs, but to him it's a perfectly good horse. He isn't at all ashamed of it. He's proud of it, so he goes on and makes another horse, and then a wagon, and a road and a house and a barn. Whatever else the child lacks, it is at least his own, and being his own, it is bound to express something."

"But the older children become self-conscious and afraid, and make something that they have been told to make, or that they think looks like a proper picture."

Professor Cizek, who has produced such marvelous results with his Austrian school children, never ridicules anything that his children do. In fact, he says he does not even teach them.

REDEMPTION STATE ROAD BONDS

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5 (INS.)—Redemption of $2,000,000 worth of Highway road bonds by July 1, was authorized by the Board of Finance and revenue today when $2,662,000 was ordered paid to the fiscal agent of the Commonwealth. The $632,000 was ordered applied to the interest—also due July 1—on $27,000,000 worth of bonds.

Spider Catches Fish

Some spiders have been known to kill birds, and most of them can catch flies easily, but in South Africa there is a fish-eating spider that captures fish that are as much as four times its size and weight. The spider is known as the Theridion Stenodora, and it is found near Natal. It measures about three inches across the legs.

Red Frog Valued

Emitting a croak of great volume, a bright red frog has been found in the jungles of British Guiana, by scientists from the New York Zoological Society. The slender animal, it is reported, is regarded as a charm by some tropical natives. When one is caught, it is cut into as many pieces as there are warriors in the village. Each man then rubs his part over the points of his arrows in the belief that this practice will assure his weapon perfect aim.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The Wise Teller

Their Glory Departed

Curwensville's Own Column

Paul Bonnell, who is interested in the printing press at East, Ohio, is home for a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonnell, Lamber City road.

Mrs. Elmer Hiekk has asked the borough to pay her a sum of money a trifle over $100 for a broken arm which she received from a fall on a defective sidewalk in front of the public school building on Susquehanna avenue.

Men who have been on the mountains claim that the huckleberry crop is going to be very short this fall, owing to the blossoms having been killed by the late frosts. If good stools and conditions could only be put away that easy, how happy we would be.

What gets our goat is how, and there so many of our young boys secure the white mule they drink in such quantities as to cause them to go staggering over the streets, especially up Ridge avenue way.

Curwensville, Pa., June 4, 1924. Reporter Curwensville Column, Clearfield Progress.

Dear Sir:—For the benefit of The Progress reporter, who states in today's (Wednesday) Curwensville column that paper that he "searched diligently" for the grave of a Revolutionary soldier buried in the McClure cemetery, the memorial committee of the Susquehanna Chapter, D. A. R. wishes to give the following information:

The grave of William Bloom, Revolutionary soldier, was marked by a marker and it ten years ago. The marker was wrought iron, bearing the emblem of the National Society of the D. A. R. and is provided with a flag for a flag. A marker was also placed upon the grave of John Bell, Revolutionary soldier, about two years ago and one has been procured to mark the grave of Robert Cresswell, a third soldier of the Revolution who is also buried in the McClure cemetery.

Since the first of these graves were found and marked, a committee from our Chapter has made a pilgrimage to McClure cemetery before Memorial Day each year, for the purpose of decorating these graves with flags and flowers. This year the weather made it impossible to reach the cemetery before Memorial Day, but these graves will be decorated for Independence Day.

If the reporter for Curwensville will make this information public through his column, the committee will appreciate it.

(Signed) Memorial Committee, Susquehanna Chapter D. A. R. Note:—Far be it from us to dispute the word of the lady who kindly tried to put us straight in the above matter. No doubt the D. A. R. did all that is claimed for it. But the question now boils up "where is the proof that these three men were really Revolutionary soldiers, and in what regiment did they serve?" Is it authentic, taken from war records at Washington, D. C., or handed down from generation to generation. We imagine not, as the Capitol building was burned in 1842 together with nearly all records of the soldiers who served in the Revolutionary war. Mr. Anthony Hill, who has compiled the Bloom history from their advent into America almost in line to the present generation, has failed so far in his research to establish a Revolutionary soldier record of this particular Bloom mentioned. The same testimony will probably hold good as to the records of the other two old gentlemen. Will the lady, and it is asking nothing unfair, kindly furnish "the reporter with authentic record of what it claimed? If she will do this it will more than convince "the reporter" that he is in error and he will willingly bend the knee in humble apology for any misguided statements he may have made relative to this important matter.

LEW J. LAPORT, The Progress Reporter, Curwensville

Charlie Minninnett, who has been more or less ill for months, had his tonsils removed last Monday morning at the office of Dr. J. Hays Wolridge, Clearfield.

It has come to a show down at last, for the sale and use of firecrackers or explosives of any kind whatever is absolutely forbidden by the State law and also the ordinance of the borough of Curwensville. All persons are therefore notified that the State law and the ordinance will both be strictly enforced, and all persons selling or using firecrackers or explosives of any kind upon the streets or alleys of this borough will be arrested and fined as provided for by the regulations. This mandate will be pretty hard on the juvenile population of the town on July 4th.

Bruce R. Robinson of Curwensville and Miss Edna Whitmore, of Sandy

township, were united in wedlock on the 5th inst. After a short honeymoon in Missouri the couple will reside in Curwensville.

This is the first real vacation that Mr. Blake has taken since he assumed the superintendency of the Penna H. & L. tannery about ten or twelve years ago. Mr. Parker will have charge of the plant during Mr. Blake's absence.

Tom Hamler, who billed this town for showing today died Monday in Clearfield hospital from blood poisoning. He had a blister on his tongue which he kept wetting with a cigarette butt, irritating the flesh and causing blood poisoning to set in. He was in height 6 feet, 7½ inches tall. His home was in Waco, Texas.

Frank Sassaman had his right thumb crushed at the Penna H. & L. tannery yesterday afternoon. Dr. Erhard fixed the injury but it will be pretty sore for a day or so.

Constable Irvin Moore, wife and children, drove down to Winburne yesterday for a visit among his wife's folks.

A few lines from H. B. Thompson for his many friends in and surrounding Curwensville:

Having been a citizen for over four score years and active in business life until the present. In 1903 the Curwensville Heating and Plumbing Co. was organized of which I have been manager until June 2, 1924, at which time I retired from active business life. Other members of our family will continue the business of said company. I wish to thank all for their friendship and patronage and hope they and others will find it to their advantage to support our successors. 6/7/14 H. B. THOMPSON.

Two Standards

The spirit of unfairness toward the sterner sex is always noticeable. When a real pretty boy does nothing but run around and have a good time people call him a sorry whelp, but when a real pretty girl conducts herself in the same manner people call her a peeper. —Milwaukee Journal.

Modified Pension Bill

Being Rushed Through Congress in Last Hours

Washington, June 5 (INS.)—Although President Coolidge vetoed the Bursum Pension Bill, Congress was today on its way to re-enact the measure in a modified form.

A new bill, grouping all Civil war pensioners, was in conference between the House and Senate after having passed both branches. A second measure, grouping Spanish-American, Mexican and Indian war pensioners, has passed the House and was to be enacted by the Senate during the day. Both measures increase the maximum pension to fifty dollars a month, whereas the bill vetoed by the President fixed the maximum at $70.

Administration leaders predicted the bills would be signed by the President in the modified form.

LIVE STOCK NEWS

Most Economical to Keep

All Young Stock Growing

The calf or calf that is not allowed to stop growing during its first winter has a big advantage over the one that gets poor and loses weight. For this reason the horse in which also is such an important factor in determining its market value, or the calf to be sold or used for feeding purposes must be well wintered and kept growing all the time. The calf used for beef making is also probably the most profitable which is not allowed to lose its calf fat, is made into baby beef by good feeding during the first winter and into the following spring and summer.

The feeding of baby beef, however, is too nearly the job of an expert for the average farmer. But if the calves are to be wintered and grazed the next summer and then fed during the second winter, it is still probably most economical to keep them growing the first winter on the right sort of home-grown feeds. Such stock should also have a fair allowance of silage and all the legume hay, then the legume hay is all the more necessary. With a fair allowance of silage and all the legume hay they will eat a small grain ration will keep their frames growing and prevent their losing weight. That is, the amount of concentrates will determine the amount of concentrates to be given, but as a rule, if they are to go on good pasture the next summer, to be finished the following winter, only enough concentrates to keep them gaining just a little may be found most economical.

It is well to allow all young stock to exercise on fine days during the winter in a sheltered yard or shed.

The important matter in young growing animals is that they receive feeds rich in protein, like the legumes and oil meals, and that they be well supplied with mineral matter or ash. The protein is best supplied by legumes grown on the place, the mineral matter from ashes, acid phosphate or air-slaked lime or by a mixture of equal parts of all these and common salt, kept in boxes under shelter where the stock can go to it at will.

In Cattle Feeding Make

Full Use of All Feed

With corn and cattle selling anywhere near present prices the man who expects to pull any profit out of cattle feeding operations must reckon with every factor of cost, and make the fullest use possible of all feed grown on his own farm. This means he must economize on corn, and that straw and other roughage must replace to a greater extent other stuff, which is usually purchased. This does not mean, of course, that one can fatten cattle upon half of the usual ration of corn, but it does mean that much more straw and other roughage should be made to help out the corn. Many feeders do not use straw at all, except for bedding purposes. Formerly the custom was to carefully stock all straw and during the winter feeding season keep racks well filled with it; in fact straw was the sole roughage in many feed yards. Straw has its limitations as a dry roughage, but fattening cattle will make good use of an astonishing amount of nice, sweet straw, and this will save more expensive hay and enable one to make the fullest use of legume hays in replacing costly concentrates.

It costs something to produce straw, and on many farms it is not given a very high value in rations for any kind of stock. Stacks are left to rot down, entailing a loss of fully one-half of its organic value. It makes good "filling." We are not only wasting too much, but many are sending too much straw. Those who intend to carry over stockers will find good use for every load of straw, and every other ton of roughage on the farm should be used to reduce the amount of corn fed. Let's make the corn stalk fields and the straw stacks help carry other than fat stock through the early winter.

Comfortable Place for

Sow Is Quite Essential

At least a week before the sow is due to farrow, she should be placed in the quarters where she is to farrow her litter. This is important for the number of pigs which a sow will save depends very largely upon her being quiet when she farrows. If she is not given a chance to become accustomed to her quarters before she is due to farrow, she may be very restless and discontented, constantly getting up and down and, as often happens when sows are placed in new quarters just before farrowing, she may break out and go back to the place she has been quartered to make her bed and farrow her litter.

Dressing Percentage of

Swine Shows Variation

In breeding studies carried on by the United States Department of Agriculture it was found that the dressing percentage of swine ranges from 75 to 85.3 per cent. A variation of this kind brings out clearly the importance of good breeding. It is clear cut evidence that the type of animals approved by the present live stock judges are always superior to poorly bred stock from the production standpoint.

Many Students of the Situation believe that Turkey would have done far better by invoking the principle of self-determination.

The Kurds are perfectly content to live under Turkish rule as they have done for the past five centuries.

It is claimed that, in the interests of justice, the peace and stability, Southern Kurdistan should revert in full to Turkish proprietorship without any restrictions upon the oil fields or other rights.

CRITICS HAIL SABATINI AS "THE MODERN DUMAS"

Rafael Sabatini, the author of "Scaramouche", which in its screen form, as produced by Rex Ingram for Metro, opens at the Driggs Theatre Monday, one of the outstanding literary lights of the year. "The modern Dumas", as critics have called him, is a man who succeeded by doing the wrong thing. Sabatini persisted in writing novels with historical backgrounds when the public, disturbed by the war, wanted nothing, according to most publishers, but studies of modern society.

But three years after the war the pendulum swung back to a demand for romance of older days, and there were Sabatini's books, written in the shadow of failure where popular success was concerned, waiting to be read. The public read them, and "Scaramouche," the moving tale of the French Revolution, ran into editions that brought its sale into the hundreds of thousands.

annoyance to pedestrians and autoists that of firing large crackers, torpedos and even sky-rockets on the bridge, on the restaurant porch and on the public square. There is a time and place for everything and Independence Day has not come yet, and the public street is not the place for fireworks.

Prohibitionists Take A Endgrance and Economy Classic Won By Waterless Franklin

Columbus, O., June 5 (INS.).—"Both Democratic and Republican Administrations have had a chance to enforce the provisions of the Volstead law, and beneficial results have come from that enactment, in spite of the lack of real, earnest effort in part of both the last administrations to enforce the same in spirit and letter."

H. P. Faris, Clinton, Mo., temporary chairman, opened the National convention of the Prohibition party, said here today.

In his "keynote" speech, Faris promised that, by electing the prohibition party's national ticket, the country will see the liquor traffic killed, and not even its ghost shall arise to give trouble.

"The liquor traffic has not been destroyed," declared Faris, "it has only been outlawed."

"It is no like paying a law against gambling and then appointing the leading gambler to enforce the provisions of that law when one of the distillers of our country is selected as head of the entire prohibition unit."

"It is not a very great wonder that we have the present marvelous, beneficial results of Prohibition, when the law is in the hands of the enemies of enforcement?"

"Do you wonder that, with Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury and head of the prohibition unit, the distillery where he made his money is still operating and by all reports never has been since we have had prohibition, and that while valued by thousands and multiplied thousands of dollars has been removed therefrom and furnished to bootleggers?"

Referring to the present administration, the prohibitionist declared: "Why is it that almost simultaneously with the President joining the church, he pardons one of the worst bootleggers in all America after he had been convicted because of Mayor Dever's determination to clean up Chicago?"

Faris suggested that the answer to his question lies in the "rotting of the liquor traffic" devotes as a unit, while the church members divide their strength."

Tuberculosis Is Not Transmitted

Calves From Diseased Cows Found Free of Infection in Alaskan Test.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Thirty calves dropped by tuberculous cows in the valuable breeding and experimental herd of the United States Department of Agriculture in Alaska from 1917 to 1923 have been successfully raised and judged free from tuberculosis. While ordinarily the practice of retaining such stock in the herd is to be condemned, and should be allowed only in extremely exceptional cases, the success of the Alaskan experiment proves that a very valuable animal which has become infected with tuberculosis need not be slaughtered; and that the excellent qualities which such an animal would transmit to its offspring can be transmitted without incurring any risk of transmitting the disease.

Appearance of Disease.

Considerable effort has been expended in developing a breed of cattle suitable for Alaskan conditions by crossing the Galloway breed with Holstein-Friesians; when in spite of all known precautions having been taken the disease made its appearance in the herd. Measures were adopted to retain the diseased animals and to raise calves from them because of their value. The diseased cattle from the healthy herd and treated as sound cattle, being given free access to pastures and receiving the usual feed. For the first 24 hours after birth the calves were allowed to remain with their dams in order that they might draw off the first milk, or colostrum, from the udders. They were then removed to separate quarters and fed the pasteurized milk from the tuberculous mothers. Milk, together with grass and such other forage as was eaten at will, constituted the entire ration until six months of age. When old enough, they were tested, and upon being pronounced healthy were added to the sound herd.

May Save Reactors.

Breeders of pure bred cattle probably will not retain reactors for breeding except in rare cases, even though the affected animals are valuable. The experiment proves however, that highly prized reactors need not be slaughtered. They cannot be cured, but they can be isolated and bred for the production of healthy offspring.

Object Lesson for Pure Bred Sheep Is Outlined

One lot of wool that lacked staple caused the importation of over forty head of pure bred sheep into Tyler county, West Virginia, in 1923, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. The owner of this lot of wool had it graded while at the warehouse in the co-operative wool pool early in the year. It was pronounced good in quality but lacking staple. He then asked the extension service what he could do to improve it and, following the advice given, purchased a pure bred Delaine ram in an adjoining state. A number of sheep growers in the county were present when the new ram arrived, and as a result of the interest in improved stock thus aroused, a boys' and girls' sheep club was organized. Forty registered ewes and three registered rams were brought into the county before the end of the year.

June Is Best Time for Sowing Alfalfa for Hay

Probably the best time to sow alfalfa is in June. Prepare the land in the spring and harrow it to keep down the weeds till June, and then sow the alfalfa. Some delay the sowing if the ground is dry, until August. Many people, however, sow the alfalfa early in the spring with a nurse crop like barley or oats per acre. If the summer becomes quite dry the nurse crop can be cut early and made into hay. This gives the alfalfa the entire possession of the soil. Common clover can be sown in the same way. If you have trouble in getting a stand of clover you can give it a better chance by sowing the seed alone as stated above, for alfalfa, because then it has the entire possession of the ground. If the seed is sown alone and the land is weedy you may have to clip the weeds so they will not rob the soil of the moisture and smother the clover or alfalfa.

Hawks Aid Poison Crews in Controlling Rodents

Hawks aid in rodent control work in Colorado, according to an employee of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. On a single day last fall there were noted 20 hawks feeding upon dead and dying prairie dogs on an area poisoned the previous day. At least as many more were flying in the immediate vicinity. These hawks, principally the rough-legged and prairie falcon, follow the poison crews almost as scavengers and are proving a valuable asset in follow-up and clean up work. When the prairie dogs have been reduced by a 90 per cent clean-up, as in the case of most systematic poisoning campaigns conducted by the biological survey, it can be safely said that the remainder will be kept under control by these predatory birds.

Globe Flyers Land Today At Amoy, China; Get A Tremendous Reception

Amoy, China, June 7. (INS.)—All three of the United States army round the world airplanes arrived here safely this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and were given a tremendous ovation.

Following the ragged Chinese coastline the fliers negotiated the 525 miles in approximately 7 hours and 40 minutes. All three pilots and their machines were in fine shape. Weather conditions were favorable.

The United States destroyer Tracey was anchored off the port to direct the armament to their landing place.

Lieut. Smith and his colleagues will overhaul their machines and spend the night resting in preparation for the hop off for Hong Kong tomorrow. The next leg is 200 miles long.

CONGRESS TO QUIT TODAY, LAYING ITS DEEDS AND MISDEEDS BEFORE CONVENTION

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON

IN S. S. Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 7.—Thrown out of the beaten pathway by a Democratic Congress for adjournment of a session tonight with a record of deeds and misdeeds, the legislative branch of the government is about to lay its record before the convention.

With President Coolidge, congressional disclosures of alleged corruption in public office and repeated defeat of the administration on fiscal policy featured a session replete with turbulent debate, factional strife and scandal.

In less than six months, the Congress forced two cabinet officers to resign, administered extraordinary attacks to the pet policies of two cabinet members, and utterly ignored the legislative recommendations of the President.

Although the Republican party holds a power majority, the Congress has been marked by incessant dissension, which paid allegiance to Senator Robert M. La Follette, Republican of Wisconsin, the La Follette wing of the party held a balance of power and their usual course was to oppose the Democrats in opposing the Coolidge administration.

The outstanding legislative achievements were the new revenue bill, which added compensation to the new immigration act, with a Japanese exclusion clause. All these measures, passed by one vote, were written into law by the vigorous protest of the Democrats.

ANOTHER CRACK WABASH FLYER DERAILED

Granite City, Ill. June 7 (INS.)—A Chicago-San Francisco train No. 51, which was wrecked near Chicago after a 79 a. m. today when the train struck an automobile on a crossing.

The engine and four coaches turned over.

Early reports did not state the number of casualties.

Physicians have been rushed to the scene.

Clarence Glid of the United States army met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Soderlund on Dorsey street. There was a good attendance and at the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served. The meeting adjourned, all reporting a very nice time.

TRY A CHANGE

How about going to church service tomorrow "for a change"? Yes, the roads are fine, so is the easy chair in the home but you can go to church and still have plenty of time for that ride and for a hour or two siesta in the easy chair. You will enjoy the change. Every minister in the city will have an interesting sermon for you. The deep-throated, mellow tones of the pipe organ will entrance you, the singing will raise your spirits. You will "rest better, sleep better, feel better."

TRIAL OF THE LILLY RIOTERS TO BEGIN MONDAY MORNING

Ebensburg, Pa., June 7. (INS.)—When the June term of criminal court opens here Monday morning, 27 alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan and 17 citizens of Lilly borough, Pa., will be arraigned on charges of murder, riot, unlawful assembly and affray before Judge Thomas D. Finletter, of Philadelphia common pleas court No. 1, specially presiding. Additional charges of carrying concealed weapons are lodged against a number of the alleged klansmen.

The charges grew out of the Lilly, Pa., riot on the night of April 5, this year when two Lilly young men, Philip Conrad, 24, and Clord Paul, 22, were shot to death, and Frank Mascoe, 22, received wounds from which he died later.

The trouble occurred following a demonstration at Lilly by the Ku Klux Klan whose members went there on a special Pennsylvania railroad train from Johnstown, picking up other delegations at various way stations.

Both factions have been reticent concerning all details of the rioting since their members were incarcerated in jail here, but despite this lack of publicity, there are indications of a powerful legal battle to be waged here.

Percy Allen Rose, one of the most noted criminal lawyers in this district, will head the klansmen's legal forces, aided by Ray Patton Smith, Alvin Shebume, J. J. Kintner and Frank P. Reinhart, all of Johnstown.

Counsel for the Lilly men includes Thomas W. Bender of Lilly, Philip N. Shettig, Arthur Nelson, F. J. Hartman Harry Englehart, Charles Evans the law firm of Jones and Griffith, Leech and Leech, all of Ebensburg, and Charles C. Greer, of Johnstown.

Dead and injured have been removed from the mine but rescue parties are still searching the workings. Among the dead are Thomas Phillips and Richard Wall of Nanticoke and John Heitrick of Hanover Green, all miners. Two Wilkes-Barre Negroes are also among the dead.

The chief officials of the Glen Alden company are on the scene. Joseph J. Walsh, chief of the Pennsylvania bureau of mines, is expected to take charge of the investigation. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

The 14 bodies are believed to have been the total casualties of the explosion which occurred when 490 men were working in various levels. The bodies were found in the lowest level, 750 feet below the surface.

Officials of the mine said they were prepared to resume operations today if the men reported for work. They were certain that no other miners had lost their lives in the blast.

Although there were reports that 15 men had lost their lives, it was stated at the mine offices that only 14 bodies had been recovered although another miner who was found with serious burns and a broken leg was expected to die.

POSTAL BILL IS VETOED

Washington, June 7. (INS.)—President Coolidge today vetoed the postal bill providing increases in the salaries of all postal employees.

The President has written a lengthy message to Congress explaining the veto. This will be sent to Congress during the afternoon.

The fact that the bill would have added $277,600,000 a year expense to the Post Office Department caused Mr. Coolidge to refuse to approve it.

Confesses To Being The Driver Of Death Car In March Philadelphia Job

Philadelphia, June 7. (INS.)—After two days and nights of grilling by detectives, John Bowers, alias Brickley, of 508 West 50th street, New York, confessed early today that he was the driver of the death car in the payroll holdup here in March in which J. Harold Wiley was killed.

He admitted that James Connors, held in New York, was also a participant in the holdup and named the third member of the gang, known as the "Hudson dusters."

"My God, my God, you've got me," police quoted him as saying. "But this will mean that my wife and child will be bumped off in New York."

He said he fears that the third member of the outfit will get revenge on him for his confession by killing his family.

NEAR CYCLONE DOES $75,000 DAMAGE IN RURAL YORK COUNTY

York, Pa., June 7. (INS.)—With buildings blown down, trees uprooted, orchards destroyed and telephone service impaired, York county was today recovering from the worst storm that has visited this section in years. It is estimated that the damage will reach $75,000.

Accompanied by hail and rain, the storm, approaching the magnitude of a cyclone, swept over sections of the county last night, leaving in its wake a path of destruction.

At Red Lion, a roof of a cigar factory was carried off by the wind and blown 200 feet over two houses, damaging a third. Damage here alone is estimated at $10,000.

Barns and other farm buildings were reported blown down from many sections. Orchards were destroyed by hail and fields washed out by rain. Because of the interrupted transportation service a complete check up was impossible.

Because of the storm, according to A. L. Bierbower, president of the County Agricultural Association, there will be a serious delay in the planting. He added that in his 35 years' experience he has never known corn planting to be so late.

The program of events follows: Thursday, July 3d. 1. 2:22 Trot Purse $400.00 2. 2:30 Pace Purse $400.00 3. 2:21 Pace Purse $400.00

More than one horse under the same ownership or control may start in a race by paying full amount of entrance fee.

THOMAS HOREY, Chairman. All stalls will be bedded and ready to be occupied. Hay and straw free.

Philadelphia, June 7. (INS.)—Nathan Cohen, a "student" bootlegger, was dead today; a $2,500 payroll was burned up and part of an office building was wrecked following the explosion of a 200-pound still here.

Cohen told police that he had agreed to run the still for a "man in a limousine" who gave him some lessons in operating it. A number of girl employees of a paper box company were driven to the street by the explosion and fire which followed.

Betty Bloom gave a birthday party to about two dozen of her little girl friends at her home on North Second street yesterday afternoon. It was an enjoyable affair and Betty proved herself a delightful hostess.

FIRST THREE DAYS OF 'Y' CAMPAIGN NETS HALF AMOUNT THAT IS REQUIRED

With one-half of the time allotted to the local Y. M. C. A. Community Service campaign passed, the workers have secured a little more than half of the amount they aim to reach next Tuesday evening, the closing night of the campaign.

There was great rejoicing in the "camp" when the reports were read last evening, and every captain and his workers were given a "glad hand" when their reports were called and recorded on the scoreboard. The workers reported their largest day—over $3,900 and the executive committee $5,000.

Division A under the leadership of Dr. Frantz still have their "goat"—it seems impossible for either of the other divisions to get it. Spark Plug was not content to dwell long with Capt. Flaherty, so last night was moved over to team No. 5 under the leadership of Captain McMurray, who is responsible for him and his actions until Monday evening. Capt. McMurray's team also have the privilege of riding in the campaign auto, having secured the largest number of subscriptions for the day, 23. Capt. Wallace Smith's team gave him a pretty race and were only one subscription behind.

The workers did not lose any time around the tables last evening but immediately after reports and instructions went out determined more than ever that success will be theirs on Tuesday next.

FIGHT BREWING IN G. O. P. CONVENTION ON TWO BIG ISSUES

Cleveland, Ohio, June 7. (INS.)—Two sharp fights over the Republican platform to be adopted in the convention here next week developed today as the committee on platform and policies, composed of one member from each state, began wading through the hundreds of suggestions gathered by six months work.

One will be over prohibition and the other the Ku Klux Klan.

With the backing of the avowedly "wet" element of the party, Ralph Beaver Strassburger, of Pennsylvania, who defeated Governor Gifford Pinchot as a delegate recently, will endeavor to have the convention go on record in favor of modifying the Volstead act.

His effort is foredoomed to failure, according to party leaders. But just to make certain of the opposition's strength, the dyes will be represented before the platform committee by Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the Anti-Saloon League, who will insist with equal force on the adoption of a bone dry plank.

The plan fight will be conducted by R. B. Creeger, member of the national committee from Texas, who will endeavor to have the convention endorse a plank specifically condemning the hooded order.

It was predicted today by the leaders that both Klan and div issues will be taken care of in a general plank pleading law enforcement without regard to race, creed or color, and without specific mention of either issue.

PROGRESS READERS TO GET "HOT" NEWS FROM CLEVELAND

Cleveland, June 7. (INS.)—The largest and most complete news gathering and transmitting staff that ever attended an event of great national importance assembled in Cleveland today to furnish readers of The Progress with the moves on the great political chess board that constitutes the Republican national convention.

Notable staffs have been present at other national conventions and events of epochal importance, but the modern newspaper world has never before witnessed such a perfection of detail and arrangement as was presented in Cleveland today by the organization of the service to be rendered The Progress through the International News Service.

Sixty thousand miles of telegraph wire, linked up into one gigantic circuit, and extending from Maine to California, and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, will carry the news of President Coolidge's nomination and kindred events to the waiting public that is served by The Progress and other newspapers affiliated with the International News Service. Stretched out in a single line these thousands of miles of telegraph wire would extend nearly two and a half times around the world.

The human mechanism through which the moves, inside and outside the convention hall, the hotels and the conference rooms, will be reported with almost instantaneous speed, is composed of men long skilled in the recording and interpreting of great national and international events, and an expert corps of the fastest telegraph operators in this country, which means the world, as well. There will be men sending their dots and dashes from convention hall next Tuesday who are capable of transmitting 3,000 words an hour.

The staff has been assembled and arrangements completed under the direction of M. Koengsberg, president of the International News Service, and George G. Shor, its editor and manager, and they will personally supervise the operations during convention week.

Clearfield's New City Directory Fills A Need Of All Up-to-Date Cities

R. L. Polk & Co., publishers of the Clearfield City Directory are distributing their 1934 edition just off the press. It is a volume of 372 pages and as usual is replete with all available and vital data concerning Clearfield. The publishers in their line, and due to their organization being solely devoted to directory publication, their products fully meet all requirements of patrons and the public. The present volume is well bound and has a good typographical appearance.

The directory is recognized as a social and business necessity and a valuable asset to a community. It is not only a book of names, addresses and occupations, it is an encyclopedia of accurate data concerning the people of a community and their various activities. It is the only accurate history of what the community was yesterday; it presents it in the concrete today and is a reliable index of what it may be tomorrow. Its pages point unerringly to the progress and development of the industrial life of the community. Every item in the directory is of interest to some individual and to the city, as a whole. Nine pages include data concerning county and city officials, public and private institutions; banks, cemeteries, churches, hospitals and homes; libraries, schools, societies and newspapers, parks, public buildings, halls, postoffices, railroads and secret societies, also information covering every phase of industry and activity in the territory covered by the Directory.

Fifty-three of the pages cover a history of householders. In this section streets and avenues arranged alphabetically, the beginning and ending of each are shown, as well as the line of general direction; intersecting streets are also shown at point of intersection. The names of residents and business concerns are shown opposite each number.

Thirty-five pages include a Buyers' Guide. This section, printed on tinted paper, includes numerous advertisements of the leading manufacturing, business and professional interests of Clearfield. They have been carefully grouped by departments and indexed under classified headings and otherwise in various parts of the directory. A casual perusal of these advertisements will picture many interesting features of the community.

ALL WAS STILL AT STILL SO STIELER STILL MAY STILL AT ANOTHER STILL

Sheriff Tom Lowell, Deputy Harrisburgh and State Game Protector W. J. Davis, accompanied by the "chemical expert" of the Progress, drifted down into Goshen township yesterday afternoon and the officers put the cleaner upon about the nearest moonshiners' outfit to be found out of doors in this section.

The plant was said to have been operated by L. L. Johnson, a Meeker county man, who came into this section last winter as a deer hunter, and one or more local men.

The shiners are said to have had a falling out and the local end of it tipped off the officers, but although they laid for the alleged "chief producer" for several days, Johnson failed to show up and their two stills, two barrels of rye mash that would have been ripe for the Fourth of July market, and a lot of other paraphernalia was destroyed.

The outfit was located, well concealed, in a ravine back of Shawville about two miles from Crooked Run hunting camp.

Obituary

MRS. D. W. ANDERSON

In the death of Mrs. D. W. Anderson, which occurred at the Clearfield hospital at midnight on Thursday, May 29, 1924, this community suffered a great loss. Trinity Methodist Episcopal church lost a devout member, while her family was deprived of the care and counsel of a loving, unselfish and devoted wife and mother.

Nevchen Diana Heck was born at Three Springs, Huntingdon county, on August 21st, 1866 and on July 8, 1891, was united in marriage with David W. Anderson. Shortly after their marriage they moved to Tyrone and then to Hughesville, Pa., later taking up their residence at Madera, which was their home for five years, or until they came to Clearfield in 1900. Since that time they have resided at the corner of West Third avenue and West Locust street. Mrs. Anderson affiliated with Trinity Methodist church upon her arrival here and has since remained an earnest and devout member, entering into all the activities of her church with that energy and zeal which marked all her activities. She was deeply interested in the welfare of the community and gave much time and attention to every activity which was designed for the betterment and uplifting of the town and its people, being for some time of her death Vice President of the Senior Woman's Club and an active member of other civic organizations.

Her health began to fail two years ago, and despite all that loving care and skilled medical attention could accomplish continued to decline until her death ensued as the result of a complication of ill and following an operation to relieve her sufferings. Mrs. Anderson was a good woman in the fullest and broadest sense of the term and her death was a great loss to her household, which had been so long and so happily, but throughout the entire community, where her sterling worth and kindness was so greatly appreciated.

She was survived by her husband, three daughters and one son as follows: Mrs. James McMurray Gallaher, Clearfield; Mrs. Maxwell Wensel, State of Huntingdon; Miss Berenice, and Mr. H. Anderson, both at home, and Mrs. Della M. Kirk, also at home.

The funeral occurred from her late home on Monday afternoon last at 2 o'clock. The services were in charge of Dr. E. C. Reeve, of the Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. P. McCurdy. Interment was made in Hillcrest.

FUNERAL OF KERRMOOR CITIZEN

Mrs. Allen R. Haney of Clearfield attended the funeral of her uncle, E. Shaffer on Monday, June 2nd. The service was preached in the home by Rev. Lewis and services further conducted in Fruit Hill Church. Beautiful and impressive music was furnished at the home by the Lumber City and Kerrmoor choirs, using the splendid home choir and pipe organ in Fruit Hill church. Interment in church cemetery by undertaker Wm. Thompson of Clearfield.

Among those in attendance were E. Percy Shaffer and William Michael of Curwensville, together with friends and relatives from all the surrounding towns.

His daughters from Altoona, Toledo Ohio, and Cuba, New York, were at his bedside when he passed away. His birthday has become a great day in the world's history, as he was born November 11, 1846, and passed to rest on Memorial Day, May 30, 1924.

ELIZA MALINDA RUSSELL

Eliza Malinda Russell, wife of William C. Russell, died at her home at Gramplan on May 26. Mrs. Russell was in her 73d year, having been born August 23, 1851. She was the youngest daughter of the late William and Sarah Wall and the granddaughter of David Wall who was one of the pioneer settlers of the Gramplan Hills, he going to that section when it was a primitive forest in 1812.

Mrs. Russell was noted among her acquaintances for her unusually kind disposition and happy, hopeful temperament. This together with her strong mother love made her the idol of her husband and three sons who have been left to mourn her loss.

Eliza Malinda Wall was united in marriage to William C. Russell on Oct. 29, 1874. They have lived in that section of the country ever since that time, and in the same farm home in which she died for 41 years. The three sons, Thomas, Charles and Harry are married and live nearby, who with their children and children's children attended the funeral. The funeral was held at the Russell home on Thursday, May 29, to which, in spite of a downpour of rain, a large number of neighbors and friends attended out of respect for the wife, mother and friend they had loved so well. Reuben P. Kester, of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Emma R. Abbott, of Brady Lake, Ohio, spoke words of comfort and the Bensall quartett rendered beautiful music.

MRS. ANNA PATTERSON

Mrs. Anna Patterson, of Glen Richey, Pa., died at her home Monday Morning, June 2, 1924, after an illness of over two months. She was laid to rest in the Bloomington cemetery, Wednesday afternoon, June 4. Rev. C. W. Peters officiating. The funeral was in charge of the Pythian Sisters of which she was a member.

Mrs. Anna Patterson was the oldest daughter of David and Jeanie Prentice of Alloa, Scotland and was born July 17, 1851. In 1874 she was married to James Patterson, in Shillington Parish, Lancashire, Scotland. They came to America in 1881 and settled in Snow Shoe, Centre county, Pa., About 30 years ago they came to Glen Richey, where she has made her residence until her death. Her husband died about 25 years ago. After a few years she was again married to Geo. S. Patterson, whom she married nine years ago. She survived by five daughters and one son Mrs. Jean McClure and Mrs. Kate Woodfill of Pittsburgh; Mrs. James Denal and James Patterson, of Glen Richey; Mrs. Anna Uhlman, of Charleroi, Pa.; and Mrs. Edward Zeigler of Rochester, N. Y., and a host of friends who will mourn her passing away.

WILLIAM H. WELKER

William H. Welker, son of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Welker, passed to his reward on May 29, 1924. Death was due to heart trouble. He was a good Christian man, belonging to the Shiloh U. B. Church for over 20 years. He was loved by all who knew him and had a kind word for everybody. He was a man who was always doing a kind deed for someone.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ida Welker, and five children: Blain, Geraldine, Catharine, Blair, and Rebecca. Also his aged father, David B. Welker, and six brothers and sisters: Mrs. Robert Harrier, Ernest Welker, Mrs. Harry Lumague, Mrs. Walter Krebs, Mrs. Floyd Green and Loren Welker. Funeral services were held in the Shiloh Church. Rev. Moses officiated. Interment in Shiloh cemetery.

The Cardinal de Solis, archbishop of Seville, in Spain, was one hundred years old when he died. He used to tell his friends, when asked why he lived to such a great age, "By being when I was young, I am able to young when I am old. I led a studious, contemplative, but not too sedentary life."

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS STARTS SUMMER PROGRAM WITH ROUSING MEETING

The Class in the Corner of the West Side M. E. Sunday school held their monthly meeting at the Leonard house Thursday evening, which was attended by 48 members and guests.

The entertainment of the evening was opened by the class quartet rendering two snappy numbers during the fine meal served by Proprietor Passmore. Mrs. C. D. Lansberry sang two very fine solos at the conclusion of the class. Following a number of reports, a ladies' trio, consisting of Mrs. Lansberry, Mrs. Clifford A. Shaw, and Miss Dorothy Armstrong, accompanied by Mrs. Neal MacBlain, entertained the class. This was the trio's first appearance and their repertoire was far too short to satisfy their listeners.

The business meeting of the class was getting under way when Fred Robinson, of Curwensville, came rushing in to give a 15-minute stunt that made a decided hit. Upon Fred's departure the class again got down to business and outlined a summer program that promises to keep this bunch of young men busy for the coming four or five months.

Sweet-Tooth Squirrel

At Epping, N. H., Mrs. Blair and her pupils noted an interesting bit of natural history. A squirrel was seen playing in a sugar maple near the schoolhouse, and a closer inspection revealed the fact that he had gnawed the under side of a limb and, hanging on by his four feet, was eating the sap that oozed out. He repeated this performance several times.

If You Can't Sleep At Night Try Some Milk Before Retiring

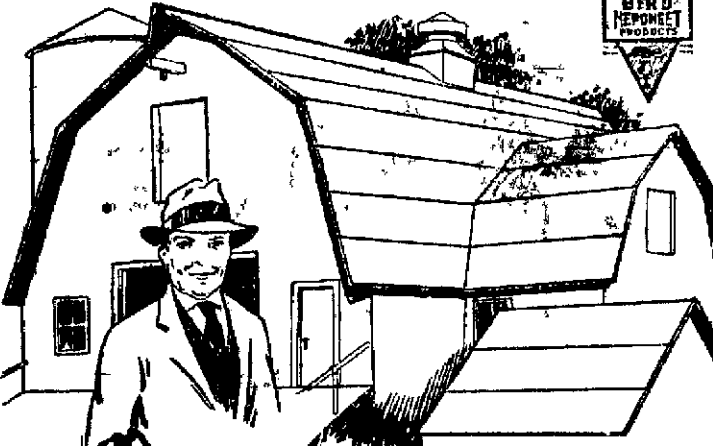

Many people find that if they cannot sleep, they try a bottle of milk before going to bed and this brings refreshing sleep in a very short time. The reason therefor is very simple. Your stomach is empty and craves something to fill it but you don't realize it.

Drinking a small bottle of milk or even a glass of milk will satisfy that craving for something to eat and you've given your stomach the most easily digested food known to man. The craving for food is satisfied but in such a form that the digestive juices will work without keeping you awake as they might in the case you ate something of a less digestive nature.

EZEKIEL ENCOURAGES THE EXILES

SCRIPTURE TEXT—Ezek. 34:1-26.
DEVOTIONAL TEXT—"I will seek that which was lost, and bring again that which was driven away."—Ezek. 34:16.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Ezekiel Preaching
to the Exiles.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Lord Seeking His Scattered
People.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Ezekiel's Mission to the Exiles.

Ezekiel prophesied in the land of captivity. The latter part of Jereminah's ministry was contemporaneous with that of Ezekiel. The purpose of his ministry was:

1. To Keep Before the Minds of the
Captives That They Were in Captivity
Because of the Sins of the Nation
(Ezek. 14:23).

2. To Show That God Was Righteous
in His Visitation of Judgment Upon
Them. (Ezek. 7:8, 9).

3. To Sustain Their Faith by Assuring Them of Their National Restoration, the Punishment of Their Enemies and the Final Exalted Place of Israel Among the Nations When Messiah Should Reign. (Ezek. 34:20-31).

4. Indictment of the False Shep-
herds. (vs. 1-19).

Israel's ruined condition resulted from the failure of the rulers to properly care for the people of Israel, God's sheep. Their sin was that:

1. They Exploited the People Instead of Shepherding Them (vs. 1-3).
The shepherds were appointed to feed
the flock but instead of that they fed
themselves even devouring the sheep
and clothing themselves with the wool thereof.

2. They Failed to Minister to the Sick, the Diseased and Wounded (v. 4).
It is not enough that the shepherds refrain from doing evil to the sheep. They are expected to strengthen the weak and bind up the wounds of those that have been injured.

3. They Did Not Search Out the Lost Sheep (vs. 5-9). Sheep left to wander away. The sheep
were not expected to look after themselves but to be cared for by the shepherds. In their scattered condition they became the prey of wild beasts. None searched after them though they had wandered through the mountains and
over the hills.

4. The Lord Held the Priests and
Rulers of Israel Responsible for This Condition (v. 10). The Lord always holds those responsible who have been in power over His children.

5. Israel to Be Restored (vs. 11-22).
Though the rulers have so wretchedly
ruined the almighty God will come to the rescue of His people.

6. He Will Search and Seek Them
Out (vs. 11-12). Though Israel be scattered throughout the nations, the divine shepherd will deliver them from every place where they have been scattered.

7. Will Bring Them Into Their Own
Land (v. 13). This was partly fulfilled in the return of the remnant under Ezra and Nehemiah, but the real fulfillment awaits the future.

8. Will Feed Them (vs. 13, 14). He will not only satisfy them with food
He will cause them to lie down in perfect contentment and security (vs.
14-15).

9. Shall No More Be a Prey (v. 22).
Though God's chosen people have been scattered through the mountains and over the hills of the nations and have become a prey to the rapacious greed of other nations, God will one day deliver His sheep and will judge the
false shepherds.

10. The Coming Good Shepherd
(vs. 23-24).
The restoration through which this great deliverance is to be wrought is
the Messiah Himself.

11. He Will Make a Covenant of Peace (v. 25). This condition of peace
will be brought about by the presence of the Lord among them. The world
and Israel will only know actual peace
when the Prince of Peace shall come
and rule over the whole earth.

12. The Beasts Removed (v. 25). The peace which awaits Israel and the world will not only affect God's chosen and their rulers but will bring
peace to all living among the animals.
His children can sleep in peace
and quiet even in the woods.

13. Flowing of Living Water (vs. 25-26).

14. The chosen people shall be a blessing to the world, according to His purpose for them. When these blessings are poured out, it shall be known that they flow from Jesus Christ, the good Shepherd. The purpose of Israel's choice was that the world might be blessed through them
(Gen. 12:1-3).

of which was yet alive.

Not So Funny

An insurance salesman is looking for the practical joker who gave him a loaded cigar. "The salesman doesn't smoke, so he treasured the cigar. Monday he gave it to a man who was about to sign a $10,000 policy. The cigar burst like a bomb and the indignant prospective customer ordered the salesman out." He went with the policy still unsigned.—Detroit News.

It's Always Something

"How did you like my sermon Sun-

Curwensville's Own Column

Paul Bonnell, who is interested in the printing press at East, Ohio, is home for a week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bonnell, Lamber City road.

Mrs. Elmer Hiekk has asked the borough to pay her a sum of money a trifle over $100 for a broken arm which she received from a fall on a defective sidewalk in front of the public school building on Susquehanna avenue.

Men who have been on the mountains claim that the huckleberry crop is going to be very short this fall, owing to the blossoms having been killed by the late frosts. If good stools and conditions could only be put away that easy, how happy we would be.

What gets our goat is how, and there so many of our young boys secure the white mule they drink in such quantities as to cause them to go staggering over the streets, especially up Ridge avenue way.

Curwensville, Pa., June 4, 1924. Reporter Curwensville Column, Clearfield Progress.

Dear Sir:—For the benefit of The Progress reporter, who states in today's (Wednesday) Curwensville column that paper that he "searched diligently" for the grave of a Revolutionary soldier buried in the McClure cemetery, the memorial committee of the Susquehanna Chapter, D. A. R., wishes to give the following information:

The grave of William Bloom, Revolutionary soldier, was marked by a marker and it ten years ago. The marker was wrought iron, bearing the emblem of the National Society of the D. A. R. and is provided with a flag. A marker was also placed upon the grave of John Bell, Revolutionary soldier, about two years ago and one has been procured to mark the grave of Robert Cresswell, a third soldier of the Revolution who is also buried in the McClure cemetery.

Since the first of these graves were found and marked, a committee from our Chapter has made a pilgrimage to McClure cemetery before Memorial Day each year, for the purpose of decorating these graves with flags and flowers. This year the weather made it impossible to reach the cemetery before Memorial Day, but these graves will be decorated for Independence Day.

If the reporter for Curwensville will make this information public through his column, the committee will appreciate it.

(Signed) Memorial Committee, Susquehanna Chapter D. A. R. Note:—Far be it from us to dispute the word of the lady who kindly tried to put us straight in the above matter. No doubt the D. A. R. did all that is claimed for it. But the question now boils up "where is the proof that these three men were really Revolutionary soldiers, and in what regiment did they serve?" Is it authentic, taken from war records at Washington, D. C., or handed down from generation to generation. We imagine not, as the Capitol building was burned in 1842 together with nearly all records of the soldiers who served in the Revolutionary war. Mr. Anthony Hill, who has compiled the Bloom history from their advent into America almost in line to the present generation, has failed so far in his research to establish a Revolutionary soldier record of this particular Bloom mentioned. The same testimony will probably hold good as to the records of the other two old gentlemen. Will the lady, and it is asking nothing unfair, kindly furnish "the reporter with authentic record of what it claimed? If she will do this it will more than convince "the reporter" that he is in error and he will willingly bend the knee in humble apology for any misguided statements he may have made relative to this important matter.

LEW J. LAPORT, The Progress Reporter, Curwensville

Charlie Minninnett, who has been more or less ill for months, had his tonsils removed last Monday morning at the office of Dr. J. Hays Wolridge, Clearfield.

It has come to a show down at last, for the sale and use of firecrackers or explosives of any kind whatever is absolutely forbidden by the State law and also the ordinance of the borough of Curwensville. All persons are therefore notified that the State law and the ordinance will both be strictly enforced, and all persons selling or using firecrackers or explosives of any kind upon the streets or alleys of this borough will be arrested and fined as provided for by the regulations. This mandate will be pretty hard on the juvenile population of the town on July 4th.

Bruce R. Robinson of Curwensville and Miss Edna Whitmore, of Sandy

township, were united in wedlock on the 5th inst. After a short honeymoon in Missouri the couple will reside in Curwensville.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Hoover on the 28th inst. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heitzmanrath Bridgeport road, a nifty little daughter, and Grandpa Henry is jubilant over the event.

The Odd Fellows memorial service will be held on Tuesday evening next in the Bethesda lodge room.

Miss Jennie Fleming who has been teaching school in Kentucky, stopped over in Curwensville Thursday and called at the home of a relative, Geo. R. Fleming, Bloomington avenue. She was enroute home to Lobb Illinois. The lady is a granddaughter of Samuel Fleming, who resided in this town in the early days.

Mrs. A. Murey, who has been quite ill for several weeks is reported as not improving very rapidly.

Mrs. Elmer Olson, Ridge avenue was operated on at the McGirk hospital, Philipsburg, yesterday and is resting easy from the ordeal.

Miss Isabel Kerns, who has been in Strassburg since last January, returned to her home here yesterday for the summer months.

James Anglesani is here from New York and after a visit with Clearfield friends for several days is now a guest in the home of Letterio Errigo, North street.

John Blake and wife left yesterday for Cleveland, O., and will visit with a daughter. From that point they will proceed to New York State and visit relatives and old friends for several weeks. This is the first real vacation that Mr. Blake has taken since he assumed the superintendency of the Penna H. & L. tannery about ten or twelve years ago. Mr. Parker will have charge of the plant during Mr. Blake's absence.

Tom Hamler, who billed this town for showing today died Monday in Clearfield hospital from blood poisoning. He had a blister on his tongue which he kept wetting with a cigarette butt, irritating the flesh and causing blood poisoning to set in. He was in height 6 feet, 7½ inches tall. His home was in Waco, Texas.

Frank Sassaman had his right thumb crushed at the Penna H. & L. tannery yesterday afternoon. Dr. Erhard fixed the injury but it will be pretty sore for a day or so.

Jimmie Sheridan returned yesterday from a two day fishing trip in Centre county. He did not bring home a full basket, but had a tremendous appetite at the first home meal.

Lew Hile and wife of Altoona, circulated among brothers, sisters and other relatives Thursday and yesterday, returning home Saturday afternoon.

James Stauffer, Burnside, spent several evenings in this town.

Mrs. John Murray and daughters, Misses Marjorie and Mae Louise, were Clearfield visitors yesterday.

Miss Doll Best, of DuBois, is a guest of Miss Pedet Ardary, Filbert street for the present.

Miss Irene Sykes, Thompson street has been confined to her home suffering from a severe cold.

Mrs. Will McGovern, of Tyroce, spent several days in town among relatives and intimate friends.

Clifford Murray and John Bowers, after spending a week in their respective homes, have returned to Sanborn Run to resume their surveying duties.

Messrs Bruce Norris, son of John W. Norris and Hugh Norris, son of Prof. Grant Norris, are home from Dickinson College, Carlisle, for a vacation.

Misses Helen Rupert, Angelina Volupe and Roxie Server, were three Curwensville ladies to take in "store sights" at the county seat yesterday.

Constable Irvin Moore, wife and children, drove down to Winburne yesterday for a visit among his wife's folks.

A few lines from H. B. Thompson for his many friends in and surrounding Curwensville:

Having been a citizen for over four score years and active in business life until the present. In 1903 the Curwensville Heating and Plumbing Co. was organized of which I have been manager until June 2, 1924, at which time I retired from active business life. Other members of our family will continue the business of said company. I wish to thank all for their friendship and patronage and hope they and others will find it to their advantage to support our successors. 6/7/14 H. B. THOMPSON.

Two Standards

The spirit of unfairness toward the sterner sex is always noticeable. When a real pretty boy does nothing but run around and have a good time people call him a sorry whelp, but when a real pretty girl conducts herself in the same manner people call her a peeper. —Milwaukee Journal.

Modified Pension Bill

Being Rushed Through Congress in Last Hours

Washington, June 5 (INS.)—Although President Coolidge vetoed the Bursum Pension Bill, Congress was today on its way to re-enact the measure in a modified form.

A new bill, grouping all Civil war pensioners, was in conference between the House and Senate after having passed both branches. A second measure, grouping Spanish-American, Mexican and Indian war pensioners, has passed the House and was to be enacted by the Senate during the day. Both measures increase the maximum pension to fifty dollars a month, whereas the bill vetoed by the President fixed the maximum at $70.

Administration leaders predicted the bills would be signed by the President in the modified form.

LIVE STOCK NEWS

Most Economical to Keep

All Young Stock Growing

The calf or calf that is not allowed to stop growing during its first winter has a big advantage over the one that gets poor and loses weight. For this reason the horse in which also is such an important factor in determining its market value, or the calf to be sold or used for feeding purposes must be well wintered and kept growing all the time. The calf used for beef making is also probably the most profitable which is not allowed to lose its calf fat, is made into baby beef by good feeding during the first winter and into the following spring and summer.

The feeding of baby beef, however, is too nearly the job of an expert for the average farmer. But if the calves are to be wintered and grazed the next summer and then fed during the second winter, it is still probably most economical to keep them growing the first winter on the right sort of home-grown feeds. Such stock should also have a fair allowance of slugs and all the legume hay, then the legume hay is all the more necessary. With a fair allowance of slugs and all the legume hay they will eat a small grain ration will keep their frames growing and prevent their losing weight. That is, the amount of concentrates to be given, but as a rule, if they are to go on good pasture the next summer, to be finished the following winter, only enough concentrates to keep them gaining just a little may be found most economical.

It is well to allow all young stock to exercise on fine days during the winter in a sheltered yard or shed.

The important matter in young growing animals is that they receive feeds rich in protein, like the legumes and oil meals, and that they be well supplied with mineral matter or ash.

The protein is best supplied by legumes grown on the place, the mineral matter from ashes, acid phosphate or air-slaked lime or by a mixture of equal parts of all these and common salt, kept in boxes under shelter where the stock can go to it at will.

In Cattle Feeding Make

Full Use of All Feed

With corn and cattle selling anywhere near present prices the man who expects to pull any profit out of cattle feeding operations must reckon with every factor of cost, and make the fullest use possible of all feed grown on his own farm. This means he must economize on corn, and that straw and other roughage must replace to a greater extent other stuff, which is usually purchased. This does not mean, of course, that one can fatten cattle upon half of the usual ration of corn, but it does mean that much more straw and other roughage should be made to help out the corn. Many feeders do not use straw at all, except for bedding purposes. Formerly the custom was to carefully stock all straw and during the winter feeding season keep racks well filled with it; in fact straw was the sole roughage in many feed yards. Straw has its limitations as a dry roughage, but fattening cattle will make good use of an astonishing amount of nice, sweet straw, and this will save more expensive hay and enable one to make the fullest use of

The designs which are black and white reproductions of original labels, packages, trade-marks and designs, are to be colored in the most artistic manner and judging will be done on this basis, together with the neatness of the work. You are familiar with most of them; if there are any you cannot color from memory, procure one of the packages and enter the contest. After you have colored the entire page, mail it to the "School Children's Contest," Clearfield Progress. Clearfield's New City Directory interesting phases of the city activities. They are not like advertisements, primarily, but rather are reference advertising at its best. In a bustling city like Clearfield the need for this kind of information readily at hand is very great and the general appreciation of this need is evidenced by the liberal patronage the City Directory enjoys in many and varied lines of trade.

It takes 193 pages to list the names of citizens, business firms and corporations in Clearfield. Fifty-nine pages cover a classified business directory which shows the various manufacturing, mercantile and professional occupations compiled under headings appropriate to the class of business pursued.

The closing pages contain names and postoffice addresses of residents on rural routes served from the Clearfield postoffice, also, land owners and the names of those with assessed valuation, a feature that serves to put the public in touch with farmers and others living in rural areas, information not available in any other publication.

The introduction is followed by an interesting sketch of Clearfield including important statistics concerning the city. Publishers reiterate that an important function of the directory is to set forth the characteristics and advantages of the city as a place of residence and as an educational center. The directory acting as a mirror reflecting all that is noteworthy in the city in the above respects. In order to spread this information regarding the city broadcast over the country, the publishers place copies of this issue of the Directory in Directory libraries which are maintained in all the larger cities of the country, where they are readily available for reference use by the public. There they serve as perpetual advertisements of Clearfield, for business men the country over realize that the Directory represents the community as it really is.

Nature forever puts a premium on reality. What is done for effect is seen to be done for effect; what is done for love is felt to be done for love.—Emerson.

Dr. Reeve has returned from a visit to Mrs. Reeve at the Trenton hospital and reports that Mrs. Reeve has fully recovered from the attack of erysipelas which she suffered a few weeks ago and is otherwise in fine condition, considering her long illness. She is now able to occupy her time by sewing and knitting and is believed on the road to rapid recovery. Miss Rebecca is today proudly wearing a neat little sweater which her mother knit last week. Dr. Reeve and Miss Rebecca will return to Trenton in a week or two for a visit.

One of the finest and largest trout ever caught in these parts, possibly in Pennsylvania, was brought into Tyrone by Harry H. Gardner on Wednesday evening. This monster is 27½ inches long, weighs 7 pounds 14 ounces, is 16 inches around and has a tail spread of almost 5 inches. Gardner brought this beauty on the bank with a small light rod, and ordinary tackle. The trout, which is of the California Brown variety, was caught in Spruce Creek, near the old Graysville church. Harry Gardner is a skillful angler, else he might not have landed this beauty. He took the specimen to Phillipsburg, where he will have it mounted.

Washington, Madison, Andrew Jackson and Woodrow Wilson were all schizoids, which term in the vernacular of psychiatrists means they were in conflict with their environment and were striving to withdraw from its effective influence and the "cosmic pull" to pursue their own aims.

Benjamin Franklin, Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and Warren G. Harding were syntonic, which word indicates that they were in agreement with the people of their surroundings, with feelings and strivings in harmony with themselves wholly happy or wholly sad, as they were affected by events in their lives suffering few internal conflicts.

These groupings were made before the convention of the American Psychiatric Association at Atlantic City by Dr. A. A. Brill, of New York, regarded by the medical profession as a foremost authority on psycho-analysis.

"The schizoid personality," he said, "retains his independence to his environment and strives to withdraw from the affective influence, as well as to pursue his own aims. This reaction sometimes becomes abnormal in so far as he assumes a hostile attitude to

"I had pains in my back and sides for many months, and my work would have to be left undone at those times. My sister told me what good Lydia E. First Use of Money

While coins had been made and money used to some extent, it was not until Rome became a world power in the centuries just preceding Christ's birth that money became fluid and took an important place in affairs. It was also at this time that soldiers were first paid for their services.

the persons and things in his environment and thus gets into conflict with them.

"The disharmony of the schizoids to the environment makes them into reformers, inventors and prophets. The genuine type belongs here. The marked tendency of the schizoid type to a splitting of the personality between reality and fantasy often leads to an insane condition."

Outside of that they are alright.

Palm Sunday

The real reason for planting yew trees in churchyards is indicated in an excerpt from Liber Festivus printed by Caxton in 1483, which reads as follows: "But for reason that we have no olive that bears green leaf, we take yew instead of palm and carry it in procession; and so this day called Palm Sunday."

CRITICS HAIL SABATINI AS "THE MODERN DUMAS"

Rafael Sabatini, the author of "Scaramouche", which in its screen form, as produced by Rex Ingram for Metro, opens at the Driggs Theatre Monday, one of the outstanding literary lights of the year. "The modern Dumas", as critics have called him, is a man who succeeded by doing the wrong thing. Sabatini persisted in writing novels with historical backgrounds when the public, disturbed by the war, wanted nothing, according to most publishers, but studies of modern society.

But three years after the war the pendulum swung back to a demand for romance of older days, and there were Sabatini's books, written in the shadow of failure where popular success was concerned, waiting to be read. The public read them, and "Scaramouche", the moving tale of the French Revolution, ran into editions that brought its sale into the hundreds of thousands.

Then Rex Ingram saw the possibilities of "Scaramouche" for a great motion picture. He bought the film rights and started work with the same principal actors who had appeared in Metro's "The Prisoner of Zenda".

Prohibitionists Take A Endgrance and Economy Classic Won By Waterless Franklin

Columbus, O., June 5 (INS.).—"Both Democratic and Republican Administrations have had a chance to enforce the provisions of the Volstead law, and beneficial results have come from that enactment, in spite of the lack of real, earnest effort in part of both the last administrations to enforce the same in spirit and letter."

H. P. Faris, Clinton, Mo., temporary chairman, opened the National convention of the Prohibition party, said here today.

In his "keynote" speech, Faris promised that, by electing the prohibition party's national ticket, the country will see the liquor traffic killed, and not even its ghost shall arise to give trouble.

"The liquor traffic has not been destroyed," declared Faris, "it has only been outlawed."

"It is no like paying a law against gambling and then appointing the leading gambler to enforce the provisions of that law when one of the distillers of our country is selected as head of the entire prohibition unit."

"It is not a very great wonder that we have the present marvelous, beneficial results of Prohibition, when the law is in the hands of the enemies of enforcement?"

"Do you wonder that, with Mellon as Secretary of the Treasury and head of the prohibition unit, the distillery where he made his money is still operating and by all reports never has been since we have had prohibition, and that while valued by thousands and multiplied thousands of dollars has been removed therefrom and furnished to bootleggers?"

Referring to the present administration, the prohibitionist declared: "Why is it that almost simultaneously with the President joining the church, he pardons one of the worst bootleggers in all America after he had been convicted because of Mayor Dever's determination to clean up Chicago?"

Faris suggested that the answer to his question lies in the "rotting of the liquor traffic" devotes as a unit, while the church members divide their strength."

Tuberculosis Is Not Transmitted

Calves From Diseased Cows Found Free of Infection in Alaskan Test.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Thirty calves dropped by tuberculous cows in the valuable breeding and experimental herd of the United States Department of Agriculture in Alaska from 1917 to 1923 have been successfully raised and judged free from tuberculosis. While ordinarily the practice of retaining such stock in the herd is to be condemned, and should be allowed only in extremely exceptional cases, the success of the Alaskan experiment proves that a very valuable animal which has become infected with tuberculosis need not be slaughtered; and that the excellent qualities which such an animal would transmit to its offspring can be transmitted without incurring any risk of transmitting the disease.

Appearance of Disease.

Considerable effort has been expended in developing a breed of cattle suitable for Alaskan conditions by crossing the Galloway breed with Holstein-Friesians; when in spite of all known precautions having been taken the disease made its appearance in the herd. Measures were adopted to retain the diseased animals and to raise calves from them because of their value. The diseased cattle from the healthy herd and treated as sound cattle, being given free access to pastures and receiving the usual feed. For the first 24 hours after birth the calves were allowed to remain with their dams in order that they might draw off the first milk, or colostrum, from the udders. They were then removed to separate quarters and fed the pasteurized milk from the tuberculous mothers. Milk, together with grass and such other forage as was eaten at will, constituted the entire ration until six months of age. When old enough, they were tested, and upon being pronounced healthy were added to the sound herd.

May Save Reactors.

Breeders of pure bred cattle probably will not retain reactors for breeding except in rare cases, even though the affected animals are valuable. The experiment proves however, that highly prized reactors need not be slaughtered. They cannot be cured, but they can be isolated and bred for the production of healthy offspring.

Object Lesson for Pure Bred Sheep Is Outlined

One lot of wool that lacked staple caused the importation of over forty head of pure bred sheep into Tyler county, West Virginia, in 1923, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. The owner of this lot of wool had it graded while at the warehouse in the co-operative wool pool early in the year. It was pronounced good in quality but lacking staple. He then asked the extension service what he could do to improve it and, following the advice given, purchased a pure bred Delaine ram in an adjoining state. A number of sheep growers in the county were present when the new ram arrived, and as a result of the interest in improved stock thus aroused, a boys' and girls' sheep club was organized. Forty registered ewes and three registered rams were brought into the county before the end of the year.

June Is Best Time for Sowing Alfalfa for Hay

Probably the best time to sow alfalfa is in June. Prepare the land in the spring and harrow it to keep down the weeds till June, and then sow the alfalfa. Some delay the sowing if the ground is dry, until August. Many people, however, sow the alfalfa early in the spring with a nurse crop like barley or oats per acre. If the summer becomes quite dry the nurse crop can be cut early and made into hay. This gives the alfalfa the entire possession of the soil. Common clover can be sown in the same way. If you have trouble in getting a stand of clover you can give it a better chance by sowing the seed alone as stated above, for alfalfa, because then it has the entire possession of the ground. If the seed is sown alone and the land is weedy you may have to clip the weeds so they will not rob the soil of the moisture and smother the clover or alfalfa.

Hawks Aid Poison Crews in Controlling Rodents

Hawks aid in rodent control work in Colorado, according to an employee of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. On a single day last fall there were noted 20 hawks feeding upon dead and dying prairie dogs on an area poisoned the previous day. At least as many more were flying in the immediate vicinity. These hawks, principally the rough-legged and prairie falcon, follow the poison crews almost as scavengers and are proving a valuable asset in follow-up and clean up work. When the prairie dogs have been reduced by a 98 per cent clean-up, as in the case of most systematic poisoning campaigns conducted by the biological survey, it can be safely said that the remainder will be kept under control by these predatory birds.
